

FLIP YOUR CLASSROOM

MAXIMIZING LEARNING TIME: EXPOSURE PRIOR TO CLASS

Asynchronous video lectures, podcasts, case examples

Practice outside of classroom

IN THE CLASSROOM

Active, group-based problem-solving activities

Interactive learning activities

1

Ensure students have access to the appropriate technology required.

2

Set expectations about:

- Time commitments required outside of the classroom.
- How and when students will be assessed.

Flipping Is...

Thoughtfully structured and planned content instruction that allows for more in-depth exploration and practice of learned skills inside the classroom

Flipping Is Not...

Having students watch a video in place of a traditional lecture

*"...instructors need to redesign their curriculum so that the pre-class activities are integrated better into their face-to-face classes with active learning pedagogies...how these resources are integrated...is what matters" (O'Flaherty & Phillips, 2015, p. 93).
